UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS MEDICAL CENTER

a record of the year 1960-61

FOREWORD

In 1952 the Caduceus staff first utilized pictures of this medical center as a highlight of their yearbook. In almost each succeeding year, due to the constant construction and expansion, the physical plant has been a focal point of the annual.

This was the year of the T. H. Barton Research Building, the completion of which marks another important stride by the University toward its goal of transforming a small professional school into one of the outstanding medical institutions in this country.

Next year's editors will need to hurriedly confer with the new dean and the State Legislature to see what new structure can be completed in time to be featured in the 1961-1962 Caduceus. May we suggest a parking building?

Our thanks to all those who contributed their time and efforts to the realization of this annual.

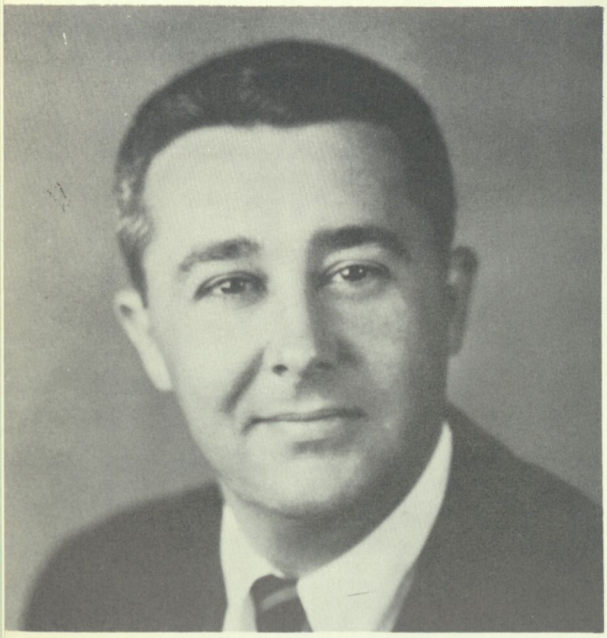
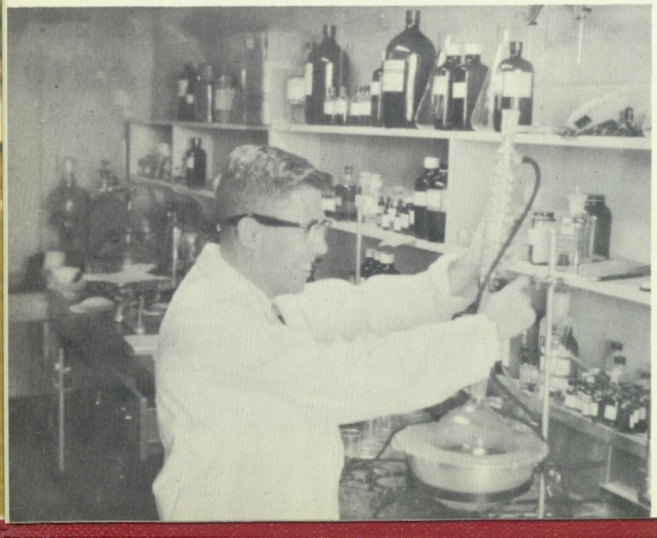
DEDICATIONS



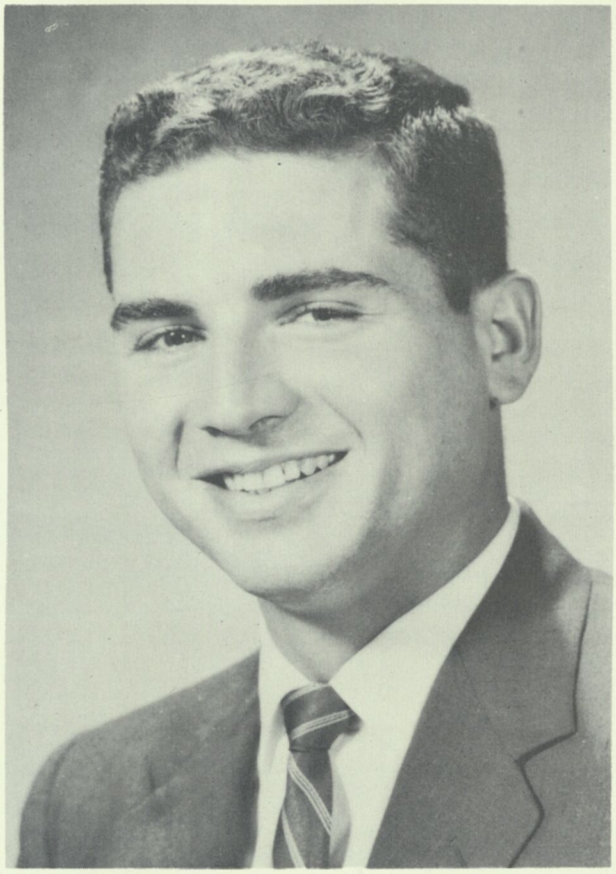
The School of Medicine wishes to dedicate its portion of the Yearbook to F. Douglas Lawrason, M.D., whose name should be synonymous with the recent growth of the school. For five and one-half years he tirelessly fought to preserve the principles of what a medical institution should represent. He early recognized that in a majority of U. of A. Medical School graduates there was lacking a feeling of pride in having studied here; and, in hopes of rectifying this, he directed all of his efforts toward establishing an outstanding faculty and physical plant, and toward developing a feeling of esteem for the Center by the people of Arkansas.

The School of Nursing wishes to dedicate its portion of the annual to Elizabeth O'Connell, R.N., M.S., whose complete devotion to the nursing profession, her unlimited energy, her unceasing desire to impart the highest degree of knowledge to her students, and whose apparent joy in life has been a source of inspiration and guidance to her students.



The School of Pharmacy wishes to dedicate its portion of the Caduceus to Thaddeus S. Grosicki, Ph.D., — for his quiet but sincere interest in each student — for his earnest and sometimes hard work in helping us do our best — and for his opening the door to both the scholastic and real-life side of pharmacy.

IN MEMORIAM



LEON WILES, M.D.

Leon Wiles, the business manager of the 1960 annual, offered many needed ideas to the 1961 staff, but this is but a small reason for which he is remembered. He began this long and difficult journey towards a medical education one year previous to this year's senior class, but he has left us to complete it alone. Our lives and our art will be enriched for having known him.

FACULTY

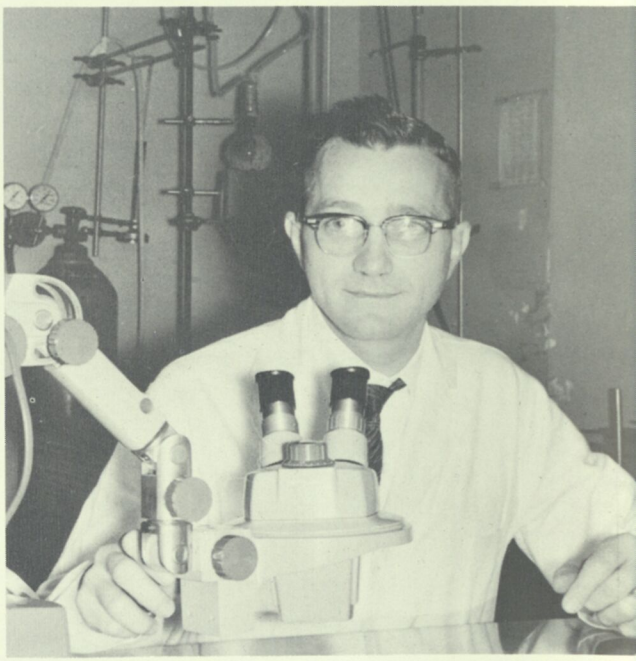
Richard V. Ebert, Professor and Head of the Department of Medicine, has been with the Medical Center for six years and is largely responsible for the development of this outstanding department. His research on pulmonary dynamics and the pathogenesis of shock has brought him national renown, and this past year he was appointed to the editorial board of "Archives of Internal Medicine". He is also former president of the American Society for Clinical Investigation. From a remarkable medical family, Dr. Ebert's father was Clinical Professor of Dermatology at Illinois, and his brother is Professor of Medicine at Western Reserve Medical School.

James S. Taylor, Professor of Medicine, is prominent in the field of cardiology. He was chief of cardiology at Walter Reed Hospital prior to coming to Arkansas in 1952. He is best known to students and practicioners in the state for his comprehensive course in the interpretation of the electrocardiogram. His library contains numerous tape recordings of normal and abnormal heart sounds.

Robert S. Abernathy, Associate Professor of Medicine and Microbiology, is an expert in the field of infectious diseases and has made extensive study of systemic fungus diseases. Dr. Abernathy's graphic lectures on the use of antibiotics, combined with his dead-pan humor, enliven the monotony of pre-clinical pharmacology.

John T. Riggin Jr., Assistant Professor of Medicine, divides his time between teaching and administrative duties. He is Associate Dean of the medical school, and is also a leading investigator of chest diseases, particularly tuberculosis. He is the coordinator of the junior student preceptor program, and in addition to his academic work, he has served as president of the Arkansas Thoracic Society for the past year.

Arkansas graduate John A. Pierce, Associate Professor of Medicine, has greatly advanced the field of cardiopulmonary diseases with his research on the aging changes in the lungs. A Diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine, he has been associated with the University Medical Center for the past six years.



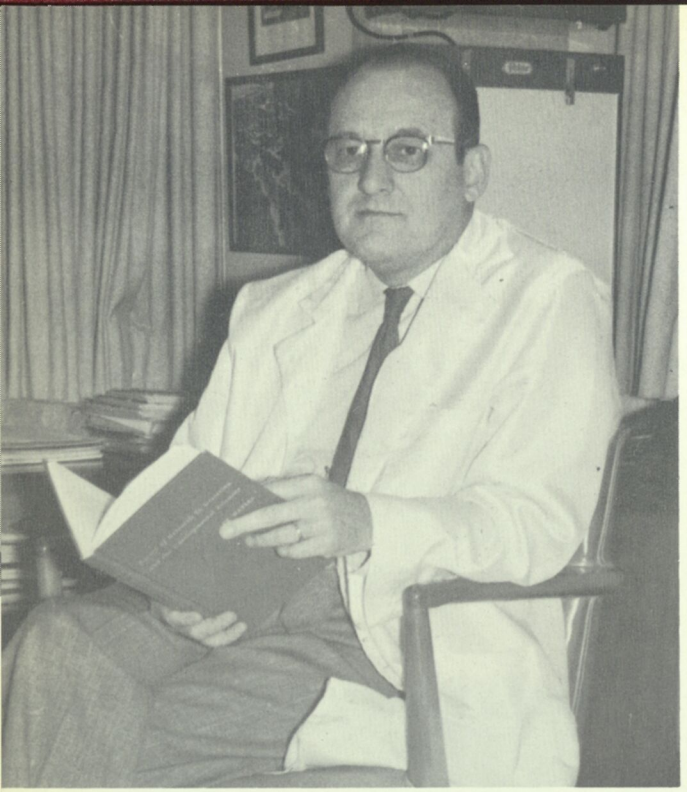
One of the two men who hold professorships in two departments, James C. Melby, Assistant Professor of Medicine & of Biochemistry, devotes his time to endocrinology and has published numerous papers on the secretory products of the adrenal cortex.

The director of the clinical laboratory, S. William Ross, Associate Professor of Medicine, is an authority on hematology. He completed his residency at Arkansas after receiving his medical degree from Syracuse University. In addition to his interest in blood, he is engaged in the study of cancer chemotherapy.

Although mainly interested in the field of endocrinology, George K. Mitchell, Instructor in Medicine, has been pressed into service as the assistant director of the medical outpatient department. He collaborated with Dr. James Doherty on clinical studies with tritiated digoxin.

W. Sexton Lewis, Instructor in Medicine, is another Arkansas graduate, and is just completing his first year as a member of the medical school faculty. His primary interests lie in the field of cardiology.

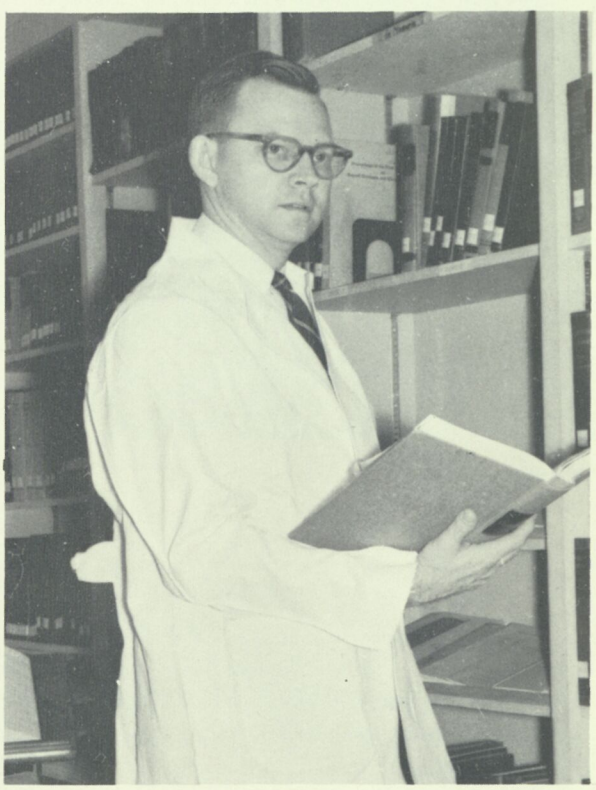
Kerrison Juniper, Jr., Assistant Professor of Medicine, is best known to the student for his weekly conference on gastroenterology. The greater part of his time is spent in research concerning diseases of the biliary tract.



One of the most prolific writers on the faculty, Willis E. Brown, Professor and Head of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, has published numerous outstanding statistical studies since coming to Arkansas in 1949. His innovations in the treatment of placenta praevia, third trimester bleeding, and advanced cervical cancer have brought him wide recognition and admiration from his colleagues. Only one year ago, his former residents presented him with a new automobile in appreciation for his teachings.

Eva F. Dodge, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, had a varied career before coming to Little Rock. She was educated at the University of Maryland and spent one year at the University of Vienna. Following this she served as Professor of Obstetrics at the Women's Medical College, Shanghi, China; was an obstetrics consultant to Alabama and Mississippi; and was in private practice for several years. She is now editor and president-elect of the Pan American Medical Women's Alliance.

John R. Nettles, Associate Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, was formerly assistant professor at the University of Illinois. A member of numerous medical organizations, his present research concerns preinvasive and invasive cervical cancer, and renal biopsy and toxemia of pregnancy.



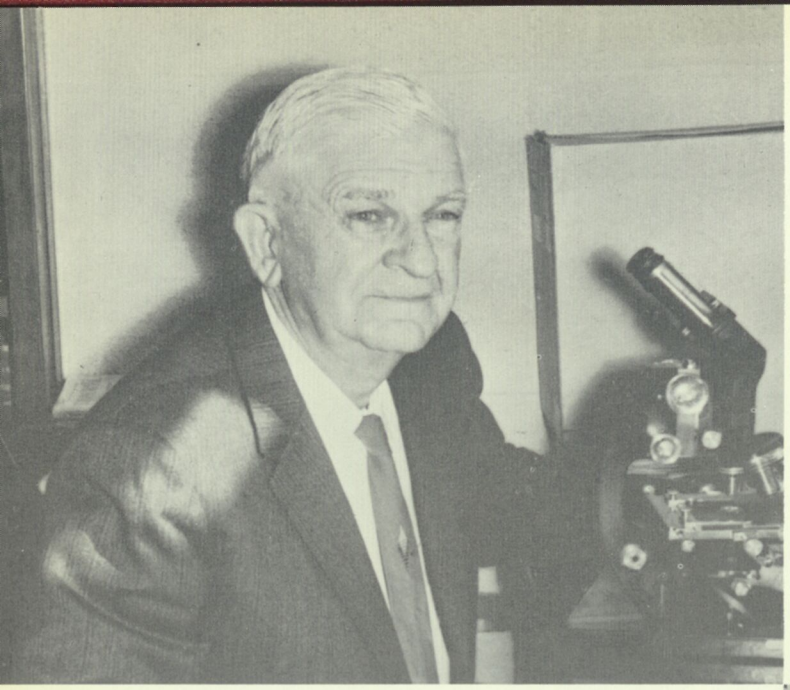
The master of the fact-studded lecture, Robert E. Bowling, Assistant Professor of Microbiology, continually amazes the sophomore student with his systematic approach to the study of the microbe. At present he is pursuing the elusive but important problem of antibiotic resistance in the Staphylococcus organism.

Carl E. Duffy (left), Professor and Head of the Department of Microbiology, has developed a comprehensive approach to microbiology that has established his courses as rigorous exercises in memory. Recently he has made several outstanding discoveries concerning behavioral patterns of experimental animals which have recovered from early neonatal viral infections. In addition to his medical work, he is an ardent student of the War Between the States and lectures often on the topic.

Raymond K. Bower (below), Assistant Professor of Microbiology, came to Arkansas from the U. of Oklahoma, and is doing research on host cell-virus relationships with the Rous sarcoma virus.

Ruth V. Jarmen, Instructor in Microbiology, is the only feminine member of the pre-clinical faculty. Her sharp pointed wit is often a respite during a long afternoon over the microscope.

John H. Cross (right), Instructor in Microbiology, is a holder of an Inter-American fellowship in tropical medicine and parisitology, and is studying natural and acquired immunity to helminthic infections.



One of the more enthusiastic lecturers in the Medical Center, William C. Langston, Professor Emeritus of the Department of Anatomy, is also probably the most popular. Always ready to give aid to the deserving student, Dr. Langston has been a prominent figure in Arkansas medicine for thirty years. In addition to his academic studies, he originated the student activity fund which is the financial basis of numerous extracurricular activities.

The course of Horace N. Marvin, Professor and Head of the Department of Anatomy, leads freshman students through the intricasies of anatomy on the microscopic level. One of the oldest professors at Arkansas in terms of tenure, Dr. Marvin has most recently been studying the survival of red cells in various species. He is also an ardent archer with several wild game trophies to show for his marksmanship.

An academician of varied talents, A. W. McCullough, Associate Professor of Anatomy, holds the distinction of having taught all the courses in the Department of Anatomy at some time during the past twenty-one years. He has published a textbook of neuroanatomy, "An Introduction to the Human Nervous Systems for Students of Anatomy," which is used by all freshman students. For ten years he was faculty advisor to student publications, and the men's chorus is still under his tutelage.

J. K. Sherman, Assistant Professor of Anatomy, is studying low temperature biology, the phenomena associated with life and death at low temperatures. Previously a research associate of the American Foundation for Biological Research, his teaching duties include gross and microanatomy.

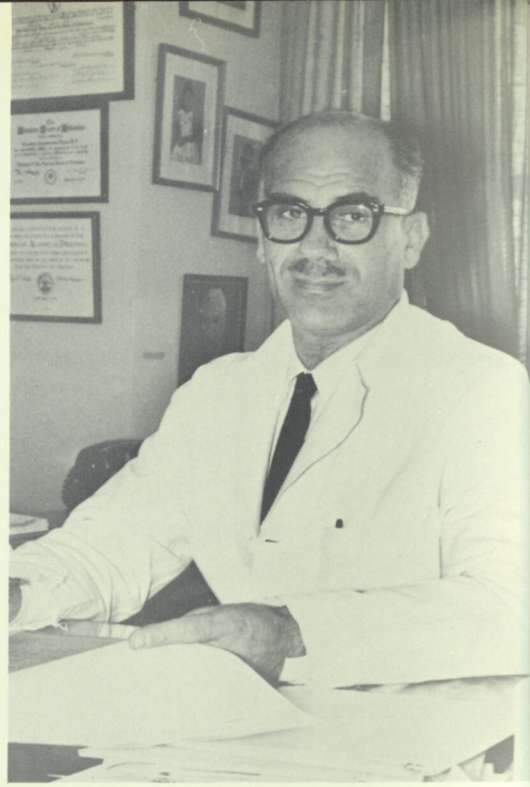
Howard K. Suzuki, Assistant Professor of Anatomy, demands the greater part of each freshman's time as he drives them through the rigorous exercises in memory required by gross anatomy. Bone metabolism and neonatal anatomy are his present research projects.

A recent addition from the U. of Maryland, Zenas A. McDonald (left), Assistant Professor of Anatomy, has been at Arkansas for only the past year. He is presently studying obesity and its relationship to hepatic carcinogenesis.

Robert C. Holland, Associate Professor of Anatomy (right), is presently completing his first year at the UAMC. A prominent neuroanatomist, he is now doing research on the important problems of hypothalamo-neurohypophyseal interrelationships.

Alice Gamble Beard, Associate Professor of Pediatrics, is studying the causes and treatment of metabolic derangements in prematures. She received her training at the University of Texas.

Theodore C. Panos, Professor and Head of the Department of Pediatrics, is one of the best known pediatricians in the South. Formerly professor of pediatrics at the University of Texas, he is now in his fourth year at the U.A.M.C. He is also National Consultant in pediatrics for the U.S. Air Force. His particular interest lies in the field of endocrinology, nutrition and metabolism.

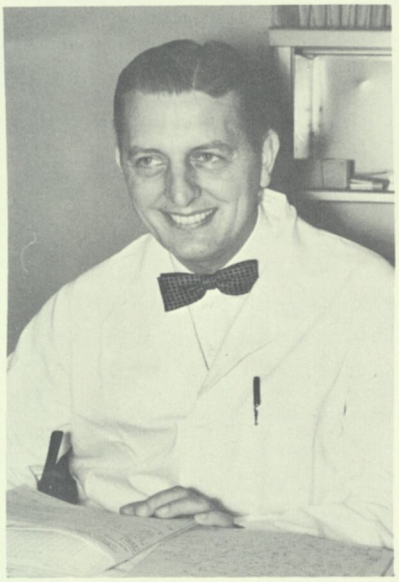


Coordinator of the department's teaching program for the students, W. T. (Ted) Knicker, Assistant Professor and Research Fellow in Pediatrics, followed Dr. Panos from the U. of Texas. Interested mainly in infectious diseases, Dr. Knicker is studying the application of immunodiffusion techniques to the diagnosis of mycobacterial disease and other states.

Formerly associated with Dr. Louis Diamond at Boston Children's Hospital, F. Stanley Porter, Jr., Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, naturally has hematology as his primary interest, and he is studying the hematologic effects of vitamin E deficiency in monkeys. In addition to his teaching duties, he supervises the care and study of children under the program of the Southwest Cooperative Cancer Chemotherapy Commission.

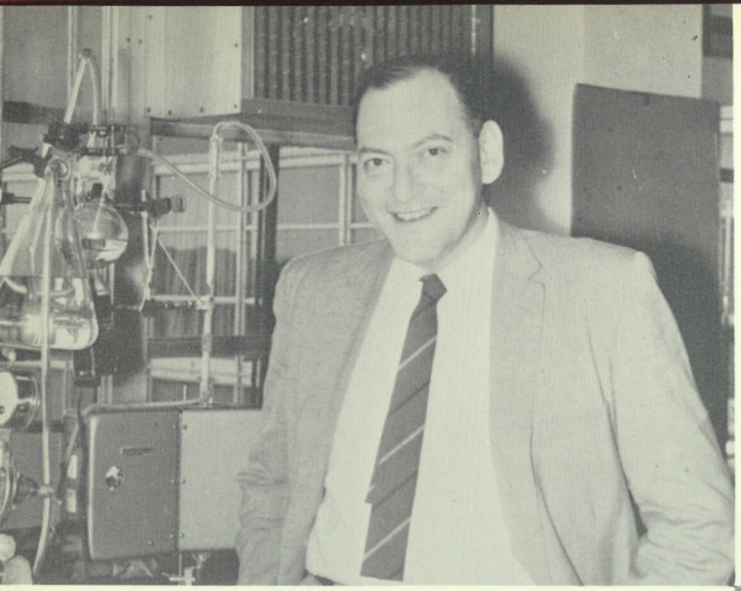
Rosiland S. Abernathy, Instructor in Pediatrics, received her training at Duke University, then moved to the University of Minnesota for post-graduate training and a position in the department there. In 1957 she came to the Arkansas staff along with her husband who is associated with the Medicine department. She is especially interested in pediatric allergies.

Delbert A. Fisher (right), Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, has developed a comprehensive and meticulous approach to the subject of pediatric endocrinology and metabolism. He is the author of several papers on endocrinology and has recently done research on thyroid function during infancy and childhood.



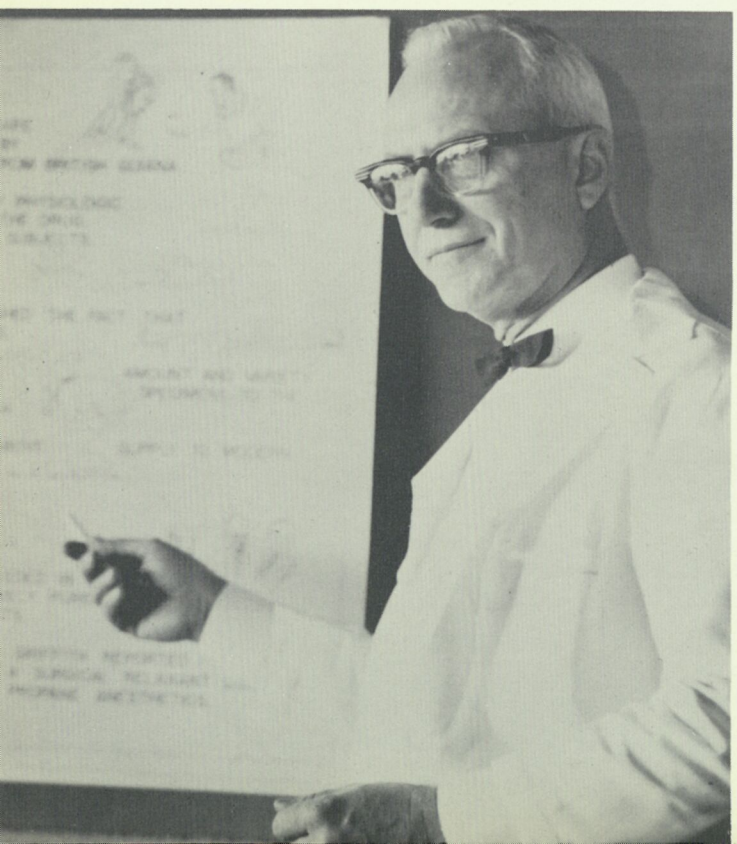
The director of the pediatric outpatient clinic, Spencer G. Thompson (left), Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, is a member of the American Academy of Pediatrics and was previously with the Corle Clinic Hospital, Urban, Ill.

W. T. Dungan, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, directs the diagnostic work-up of all pediatric congenital heart diseases seen at the U.A.M.C. His medical education was gained at Vanderbilt University followed by a fellowship in pediatric cardiology at the University of Chicago.



One of the most jovial pre-clinical lecturers, Joseph E. Stone, Assistant Professor of Pharmacology, was with the Veterans Research Hospital, Chicago, Illinois, until 5 years ago. The biochemical investigation of nucleic acid antimetabolites, which is one hope for the treatment of cancer, is his present study.

Charles D. Wood, Assistant Professor of Pharmacology, is a neurophysiologist and pharmacologist. He has published several monographs on the behavioral, biochemical and electrical alternations produced by application of drugs directly to the central nervous system, and also the investigation of cyanide anesthesia combination as a cancer chemotherapy.



One of the few pre-clinical instructors who holds an M.D. degree, Lloyd D. Seager, Professor and Head of the Department of Pharmacology, is a graduate of St. Louis University School of Medicine. He has membership in Sigma Xi, the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, the American Association for the Advancement of Science; Dr. Seager specializes in cardiovascular chemotherapy and the effects of digitalis.

J. E. Whitney, Associate Professor and Acting Head of the Department of Physiology, received a PhD in physiology from the University of California, and he followed this with a PhD in biochemistry at Cambridge University, England, where he studied under Dr. Krebs. A Fellow of the American Cancer Society, his field of interest is the study of the endocrine glands.

H. Millard Smith, Assistant Professor of Physiology, concerns himself with neurophysiology and is studying the structure and function of nerves. He was formerly on the faculty of the College of Medical Evangelists, and has just completed his second year at the University of Arkansas.

Kenneth A. Aulsebrook, Assistant Professor of Physiology, is at present working on the control of intestinal fluid and electrolyte transfer. He holds a PhD degree from Wisconsin, and is a member of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine. A didactic lecturer, endocrinology has been his primary interest.

Howard J. Barnhard, Professor and the Head of the Department of Radiology, returned to the University after one year as assistant professor at Hahneman Medical College, to reorganize a department most of whose members had taken positions elsewhere. His tireless efforts have brought a return to stability and the quality of the department is a credit to him. Collaborating with Dr. John Pierce, he did some outstanding work on the roentgenologic determination of total lung capacity.

A graduate of Arkansas and a member of A.O.A., Eleanor Deed, Instructor in Radiology, is completing her first year of teaching.

Another Duke University graduate, W. Clint Talley, Assistant Professor of Radiology, completed his residency here before spending two years with the United States Air Force. His primary interest is in establishing a tissue culture lab.

Wilma C. Diner, Assistant Professor of Radiology, is a graduate of Duke University and received her post-graduate training at Massachusetts General. She has been associated with the Medical Center for four years, and during that time has done research on water soluble contrast media, simulated dosage measurements of intrauterine cobalt capsule implant therapy, pelvic pneumoperitoneums, and roentgen manifestations of milk allergy.

The Department of Pathology received a welcome addition in April when Tom D. Norman, Professor and Head, returned after a year's absence. Dr. Norman is a graduate of Tulane Medical School and completed his pathology training at the University of Tennessee. He was associate professor at Arkansas from 1958-60, and now returns to bring stability to a department that was disrupted by the unfortunate accident to Dr. Schlumberger. Dr. Norman recently received a $35,000 grant which is to be used in the study of the mechanism of cardiac hypertrophy.

Stephen G. Wilson, Assistant Professor of Pathology, was associated with the Medical Center for two years, but concluded his work here at the end of the 1961 school year. He had formerly held the position of chief of pathology at the radiobiological lab of the University of Texas and the U.S. Air Force. His new position will move him to Knoxville, Tennessee, where he will be in close correlation with the atomic research center at Oak Ridge so that he may better continue his studies on the modes of acute radiation death in the monkey.

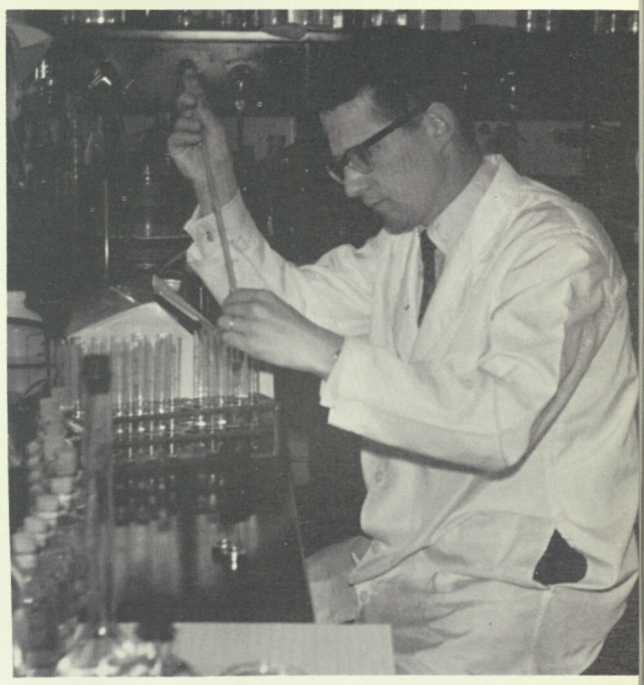
Thomas F. Dilday, Assistant Professor of Pathology, is a graduate of the University of Arkansas and trained under Dr. Hans Schlumberger. He was in private practice for one year prior to returning to his present position on the faculty. He is facetiously known as "the student's friend?"

Ezzat S. Younathan, Assistant Professor of Biochemistry, held a similar position at his alma mater, Florida State University, prior to coming to the University in 1958. His research is primarily in the field of enzymology and the study of enzyme synthesis.

Upon completion of his internship at the University Hospital, Coy Fitch, Instructor in Biochemistry, was awarded a $16,000 grant to continue his studies on creative metabolism in hyperthyroidism, nutritional muscular dystrophy and hereditary muscular dystrophy in the mouse. He has recently completed three years of work in this field and will return to the University in July to complete his training in internal medicine.

James S. Dinning, Professor and Head of the Department of Biochemistry, took a three months' leave of absence in the fall of 1960 to accompany an eight man team made up of biochemistry nutricianists and clinicians to survey the nutritional status of Thialand. The government of Thialand requested that the U.S. government conduct this survey. Dr. Dinning holds the position "Special Consultant of the National Institutes of Health, Metabolism and Nutrition," and is best known for the discovery that vitamin E deficiency in the monkey will produce muscular dystrophy. He is currently continuing his investigations on this subject and is also studying the biochemical aspects of blood cell formation.

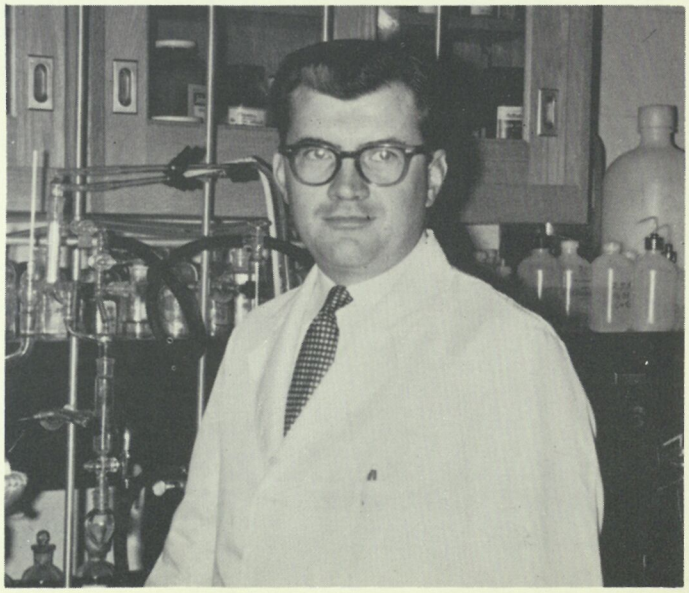
Harold Resnick, Instructor of Biochemistry, is studying the fundamental chemistry of collagen tissues in an effort to explain the etiology of the collagen dieseases. A graduate of the University of Iowa, he has been with the University for two years.



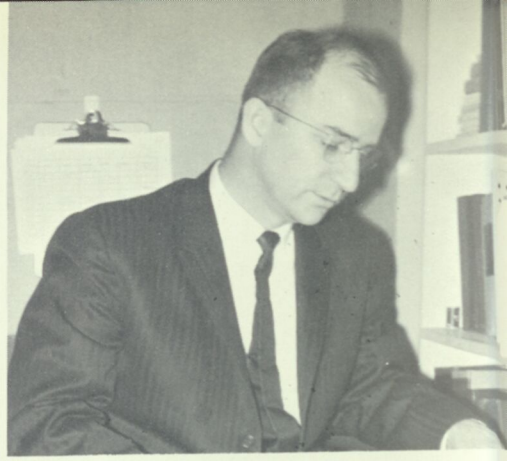
A graduate of Heidelberg University and the University of Kentucky, J. F. Diehl, Assistant Professor of Biochemistry, has published several basic articles on protein metabolism in muscular dystrophy and the effect of infection on vitamin reserves.

Thomas R. Henderson, Research Associate in Biochemistry, and his wife joined the faculty in September, 1960, after receiving their degrees from the University of Texas. Dr. Henderson is instructor of biochemistry and his wife is working as a post-doctorate fellow in the department.

Metabolism and nutrition of amino acids and proteins has been the primary interest of Robert L. Wixom, Associate Professor of Biochemistry. A member of the American Chemical Society and the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, he has taught at the University for eight years and is best known to the student for his lectures concerning the interrelationships of the amino acids.



Head of the department for the past ten years, William G. Reese, Professor of Psychiatry, was also chairman of the Southern Professors of Psychiatry for 1960-61. He is responsible for bringing numerous notable psychiatrists to the Medical Center for seminars. He earned his B.S. and M.S. degrees at the U. of Idaho and was graduated from Washington U. School of Medicine. A member of numerous medical and psychiatric organizations, he is also a Diplomat of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology.

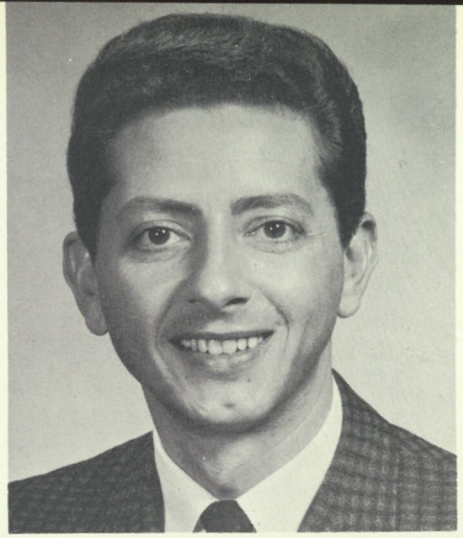


The President of the Arkansas Psychiatric Society, John E. Peters, Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Director of the Psychiatric Clinic for Children, was once a student under Dr. Horsley Gant. He has written extensively on experimental pathological behavior in animals and minimal brain damage in children, his main interests.

Roscoe A. Dykman, Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Director of the Division of Behavioral Sciences, has been instrumental in making Arkansas a leader in computer research in psychophysiology. The division of behavioral sciences has received research grants from the National Institute of Mental Health totaling $322,000. Dr. Dykman is also chairman of the admissions committee and is studying intellectual and personality factors predicting success in medical school.

Sydney J. Fields, Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Senior Clinical Psychologist, is a specialist in hypnosis and also manages the group psychotherapy meetings. Formerly with the Human Resources Research Office in Washington, D. C., as a Team Director, he has been with the University for eight years.

Director of the Psychiatric Outpatient Clinic, Fred O. Henker, III, Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, had been the chief psychiatrist at the Jackson, Mississippi V.A. Hospital before coming to Arkansas in 1958. The interrelationship of religion and psychiatry is his special field of interest.



Previously chief psychologist and co-director of the child guidance clinic at the U. of Texas, Sam D. Clements, Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, directs the examination of a majority of the children seen by the psychiatric department. He is investigating behavior and learning problems, minimal brain damage, and reading retardation in children.

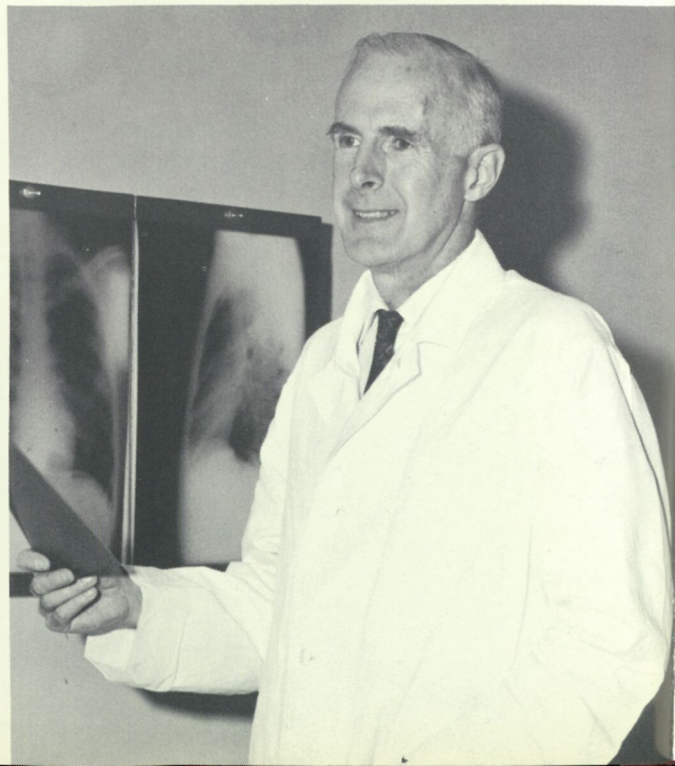
Charles R. Galbrecht, Instructor in Psychiatry, is doing research in the area of psychophysiology by studying the response of the autonomic nervous system to various psychological stress situations. He also teaches a course in statistical analysis to sophomores.

A former clinical psychologist in Vienna, Austria, Maria D. Simon, Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, received her B.S. degree from Oxford University and her Ph.D. from the Vienna Psychoanalytic Institute. She is especially interested in child development and is studying projective testing and school readiness.

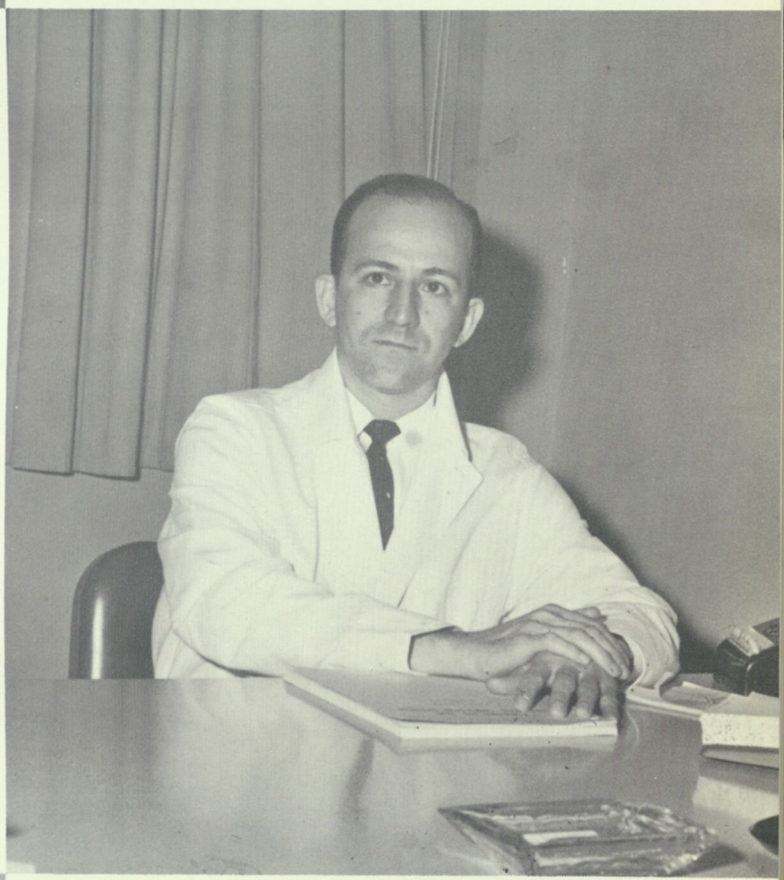
Masauki Hara, Professor of Surgery, is widely recognized as one of the leading cardiovascular surgeons in the south, and is a pioneer in open-heart surgery in the state of Arkansas. Also regarded as an excellent clinical diagnostician, no student with whom he has any contact fails to recognize the importance of the fundamentals of physiology.

James H. Growden, Professor and Head of the Department of Surgery, trained under Dr. E. Graham at Barnes Hospital. He is a consultant for the two local Veteran's Hospitals and the Arkansas State Hospital, and was recently the guest lecturer at Louisiana State University's Postgraduate Day. A Diplomat of the American Board of Surgery, his primary interest is thoracic surgery.

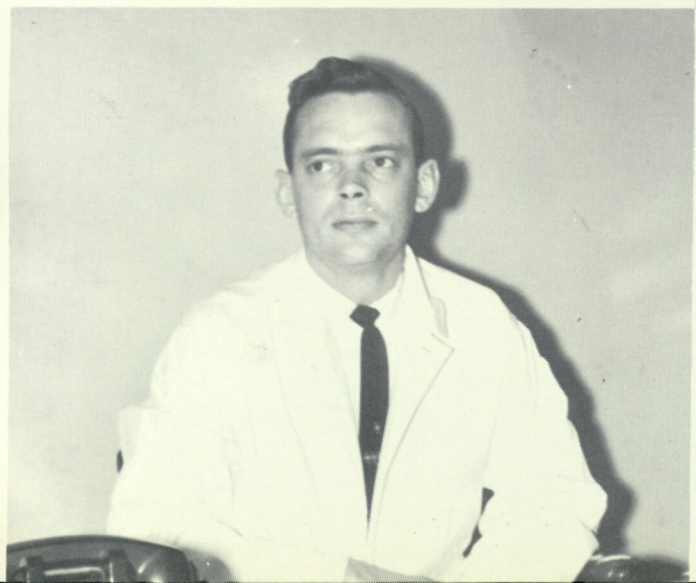
Familiar to his students and colleagues for his dignified reserve, Dana M. Street, Professor and Head of Orthopedic Surgery, has contributed numerous outstanding innovations to his chosen field, including the Hansen-Street intramedullary nail, the split Street nail and the Street walker. He is also doing research on rehabilitation of the paraplegic.



From New York University and Bellvue Hospital, Merril Grayson, Associate Professor of Opthalmology, came to the Medical Center in the fall of 1960. His special interest is tonography in glaucoma.



A 1953 honor graduate of the Arkansas Medical School, Thomas M. Fletcher, Assistant Professor of Surgery, returned to the Medical Center in 1961 to become the first full-time staff neurosurgeon. He has been with the Neurological Institute in New York for the past three years. He has had experience in the technique of hypothermia as used in neurosurgery, and with the aid of grants, intends to continue that work here.

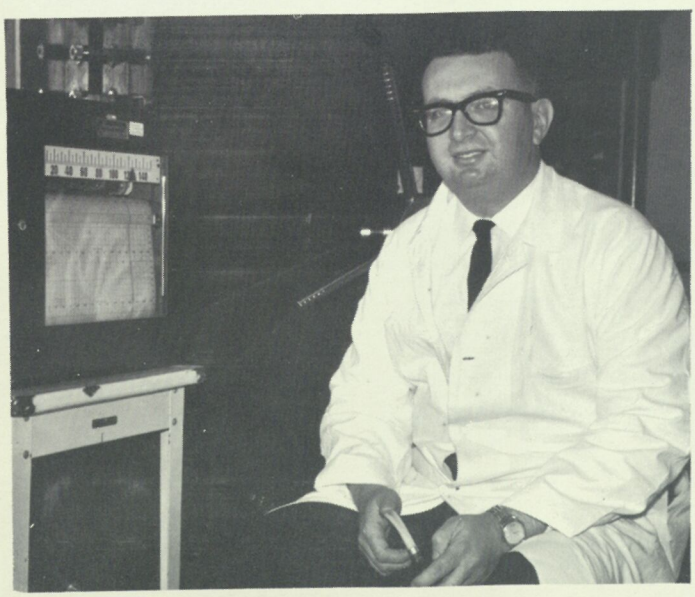


A protege of Dr. Hara's, Ben M. Lincoln, Instructor of Surgery, completed his residency here in 1959, and continues his studies of cardiovascular surgery.

Cecil W. Shafer, Professor and Head of the Department of Anesthesiology, is studying the effects of hypothermia on fetal circulation. His enthusiasm has interested many Arkansas students in the art of sleep-making.

Norman Westerman, Instructor of Anesthesiology, was previously associated with the Ft. Roots V.A. Hospital before returning to his alma mater in 1960.

Robert Knapp, Assistant Professor of Orthopedics, was in general practice in Colorado for 6 years prior to taking his orthopedic residency under Dr. Street. Pediatric orthopedics is his special interest.



Recipient of a Ph.D. degree in pharmacology in addition to his M.D. degree, Jerome J. Landy, Assistant Professor of Surgery, is the principal investigator of the newly established germ-free laboratory where he will deliver and raise both small and large germ-free animals for physiological experimentation. He was recently accepted to Fellowship in the American College of Surgeons.

SCHOOL OF NURSING

service to mankind is the primary function of nurses and the reason for the existence of the nursing profession.

from the international code of nursing ethics

Faculty

Doctor Frances M. Russell, newly appointed Dean of the School of Nursing, came to the Medical Center in July, 1960, from the University of North Carolina where she was a graduate student from 1957-60 completing work on her Ph.D. She attended Vanderbilt University School of Nursing and was assistant professor of Nursing at Medical College of Virginia. In addition to her Ph. D., Dean Russell holds B.A., B.S., M.S., and M.A., degrees. She has done research on a study of graduate programs for graduate nurses. Dean Russell is a member of the ANA, NLN, and Sigma Theta Tau.

Lynn Robinson
Administrative Secretary to Dean

Secretary

Miss Ona Ziehli has been Professor of Mental Health and Psychiatric Nursing at the Medical Center for the past three years. Prior to this, she was a counselor at the University of Minnesota. She received her B.S.P.H.N. from the University of Wisconsin and her M.Ed. from the University of Minnesota. This year she has served as an advisor of the SNA, is a member of the ANA, NLN, and is a director of an undergraduate training grant in Mental Health Psychiatric Nursing.

Miss Elizabeth O'Connell, a member of the faculty for four years, is Professor of Maternal and Child Health Nursing. She attended Washington University School of Nursing, and Columbia University earning her B.S.N., and M.S.N. degrees. Prior to coming to the Medical Center, she was director of Nurses, St. Louis Children's Hospital and Instructor in Pediatric Nursing, Washington University School of Nursing.

Mrs. Claudia B. Watson, Assistant Professor of Medical and Surgical Nursing, joined the faculty in 1960. She received her B.S.N. from Columbia University, her M.S. from Boston University, and is a member of ANA and NLN.

Mrs. Patricia Brandt, Professor of Nursing, received her training at Roosevelt Hospital and her B.S. and M.S. degrees from New York University and Columbia University respectively. She has been associated with the University School of Nursing since July, 1958, and is a member of ANA and NLN.

Mrs. Ila W. Steinkamp, Assistant Professor of Public Health, has come to us this year with R.N., B.S.N., M.S. N.Ed, and M.S.P.H. degrees. She is president of the Little Rock Business and Professional Women's Club and is a member of ANA and NLN. She was formerly Director of In-Service Education at Arkansas Baptist Hospital.

Miss Norma Jean Long, Assistant Instructor in Medical & Surgical Nursing, received her B.S.N. from the University of Arkansas School of Nursing where she remained as a staff nurse for one year. Before returning this year, she served on the staff of Kennedy Veterans Administration Hospital in Memphis, Tennessee.

Miss Eleanor C. Sheldon, Chief, Nursing Service and Assistant Professor in the School of Nursing received her RN from St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital School of Nursing, Ann Arbor, Michigan, her B.A. and M.A. with a certificate in Social Work from the University of Utah. Prior to coming to the UAMC in 1954, she was Director of Nursing at Latter Day Saints Hospital, & Clinical Professor at several schools of nursing. She is a member of ANA and NLN.

Mrs. Anna G. Langstaff, Assistant Instructor in Psychiatric Nursing, received her B.S. degree from Vanderbuilt University School of Nursing. Miss Langstaff was formerly a staff nurse at the UAMC and is a member of ANA.

The first meeting of the University of Arkansas Student Nurses Association was held in Old Main, November, 1953. Since that time, the SNA has developed into two functioning organizations, one on the main campus in Fayetteville and the other at the Medical Center in Little Rock. The main purposes of this organization are to stimulate interest and understanding in the program of the graduate professional nursing organization and to provide a more unified spirit among student nurses through group activities.

THE MEDICO

Front Row: Jim Maupin, Columnist; George Malone, Editor-in-Chief; Becky Semasek, Reporter. Back Row: Jim Lawrence, Co-Business Manager; John Moose, Co-Business Manager; Bob Benafield, Staff Writer; Richard Darden, Artist.

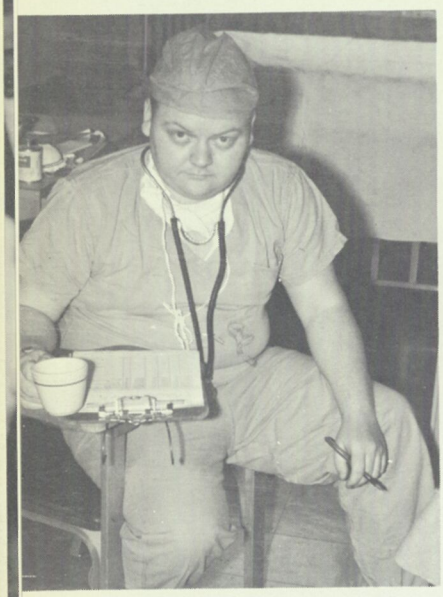
Moose, Maupin, Malone, and Lawrence admiring the issue that won them the right to repeat the year 1960-61.

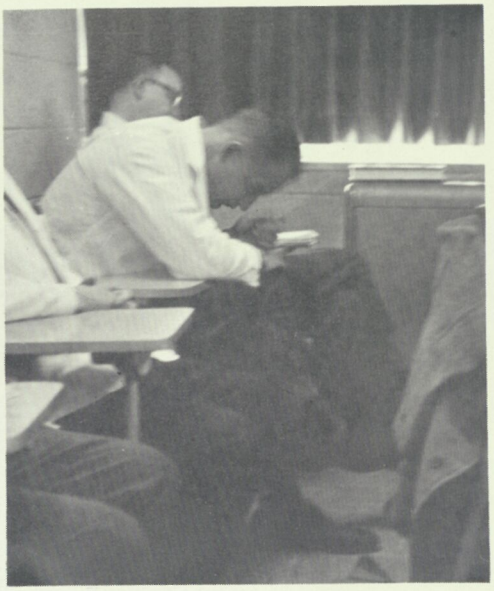
"What do you mean you want to do a sperm count before we go out?"

". . . and then I cut the sciatic nerve."



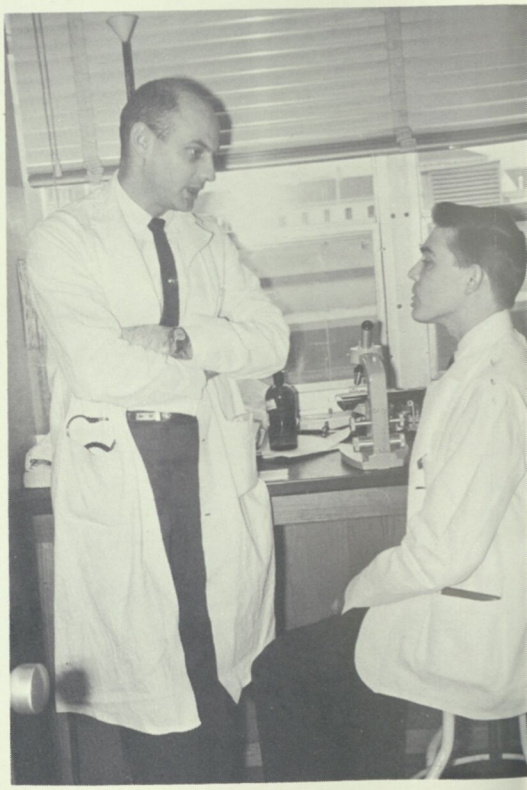
"I thought YOU sewed up the episiotomy!"

There's one advantage to the psychiatry service.



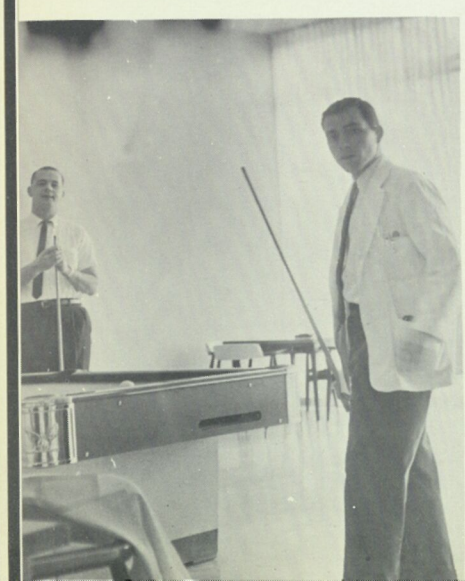
The most interesting lecture of the year.

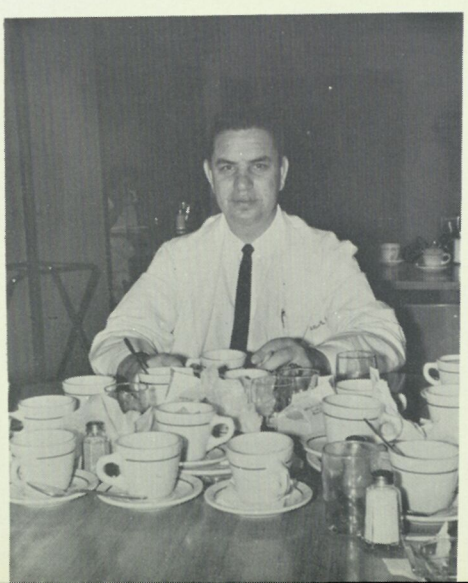
"This damn diet is killing me!"

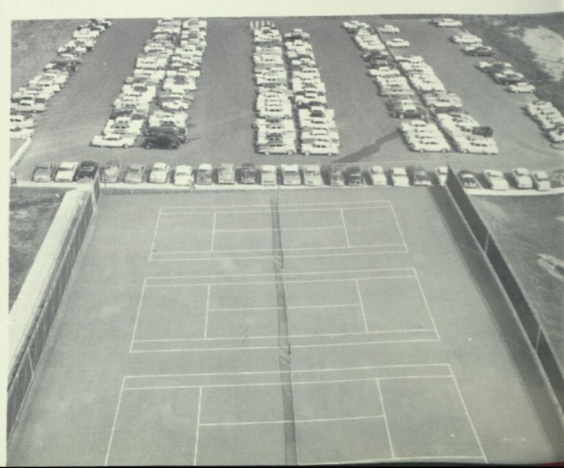


"And Gene, the next twelve lab tests will be easier."

Dean Lawrason is gone.

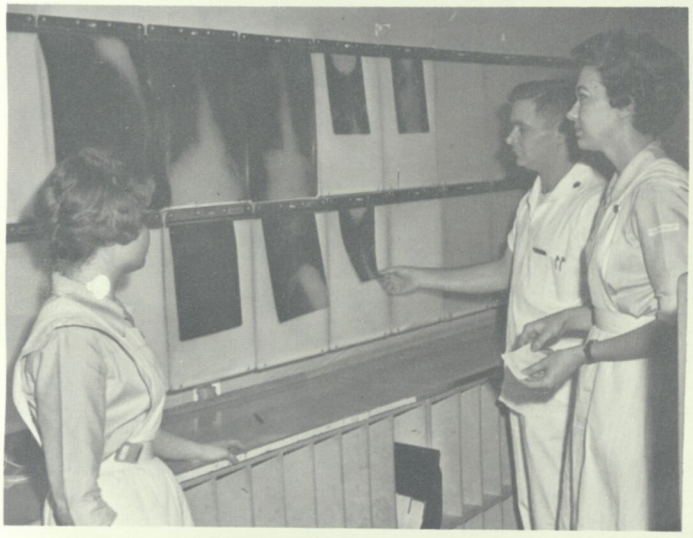






Don't let their attractive faces fool you, they're the ones that give the Barium Enemas.

A gift? ? ? of my former students.



Read it? Hell, I just take 'em.

And they told me I was getting a milk shake! . . . . But it has its drawbacks, too.

There are certain advantages to X-Ray Technology . . . .

AN EARLY TRIP TO THE MARION

And then I threw both him AND his wife out of the dorm!

Why does Hosea laugh at all your jokes?
Because he thinks he has pretty teeth.

EARLY

C_2H_5OH will improve anybody's outlook.

LATE

I see a tall, dark drunk staggering into your future.

ILLIGITIMUS NON CARBORUNDUM

Boy Scout's honor I haven't touched a drop.

The Navy didn't pay Jay this month, and this was all the alcohol we had.

You won't believe this, but I never touched the stuff until I came to med school.

Last of the Big Time Operators.

We can see your left hand, but what's your right hand doing?

One learns to itch where one can scratch.

Don't, that tickles.

A strange time for sleeping.

FUN, ACTIVITIES, et alli

DANCING AT THE ROBINSON

Band started slow

But got better

Who needs music?

Beverages were plentiful

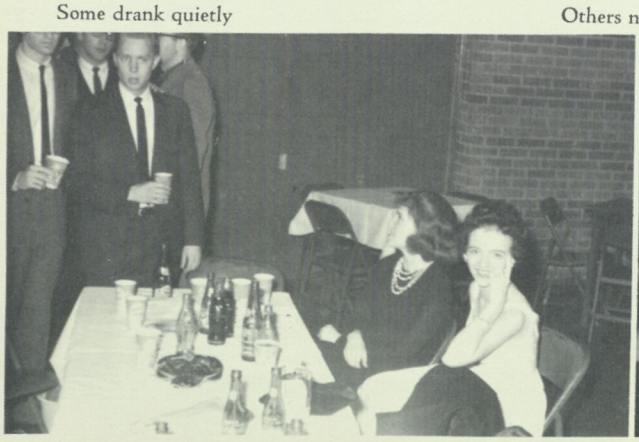
Too plentiful

Much too plentiful

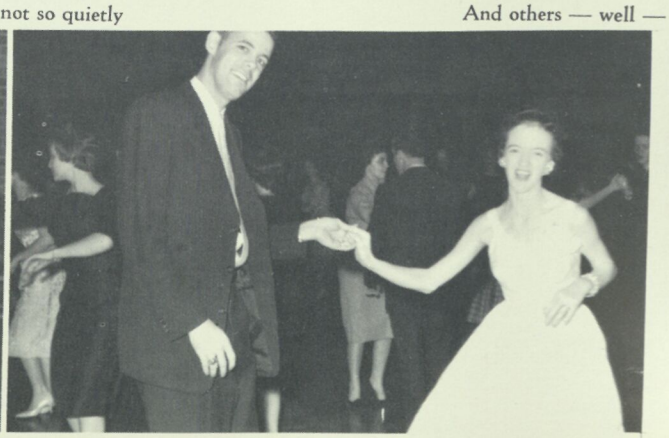
Some drank quietly

Others not so quietly

And others — well —



A quick "Coke" between numbers



Everybody Danced.

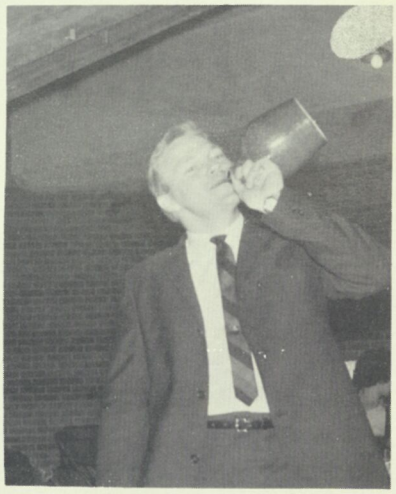
ANOTHER DANCE-SAME CROWD

Here's mud in your eye.

The glare off that knob would make me blink, too, George.

If I can just get this bottle open, I can catch up with L.B.

Don't take my picture with THEM! What would my husband think?

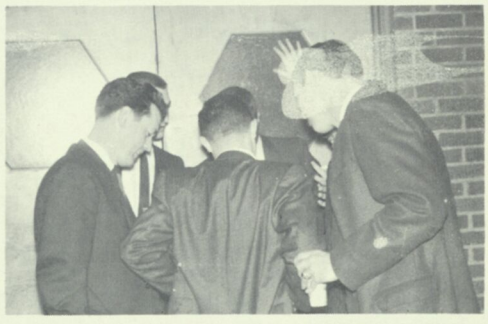


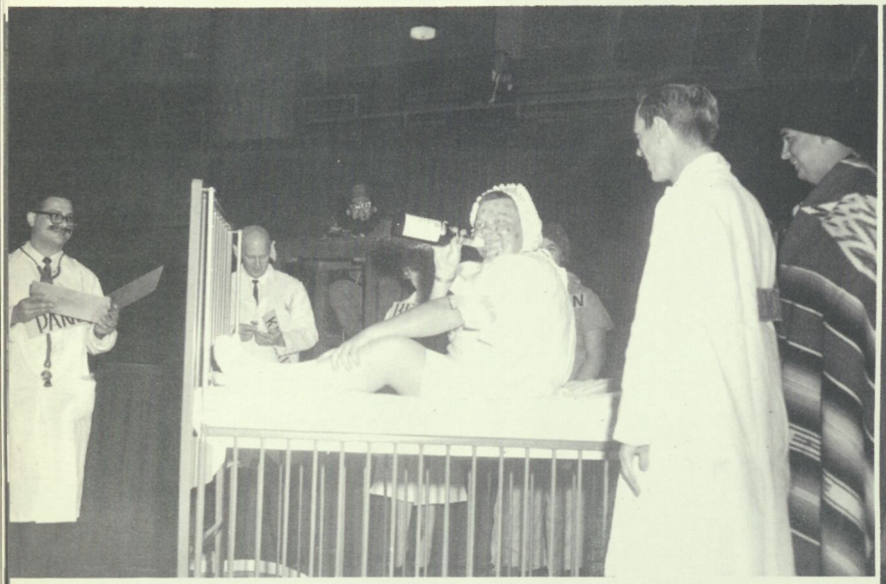
My pappy makes the stuff.

The difference between existence and life is the intelligent use of leisure.

B P H?

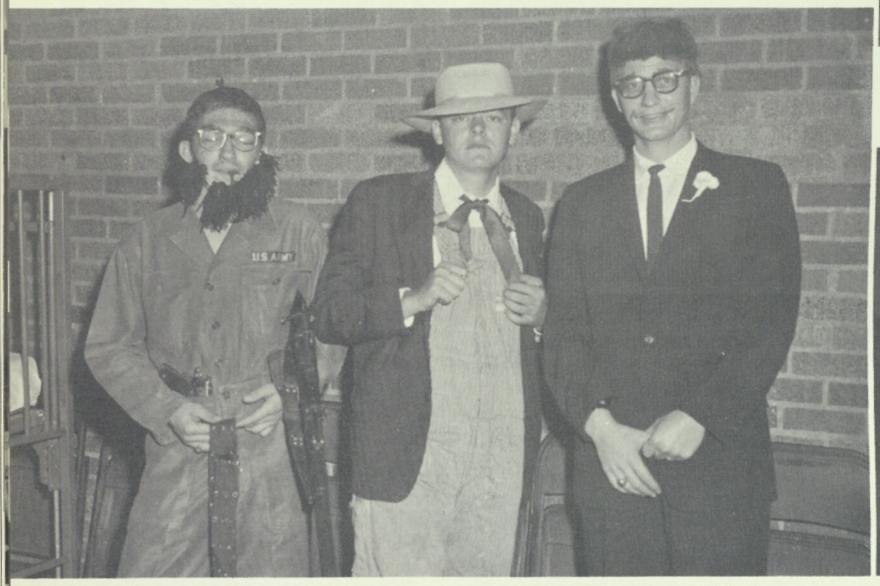
What a tactful way to say "NO!"





The East China Medical Journal reported a similar case in 1000 B.C.

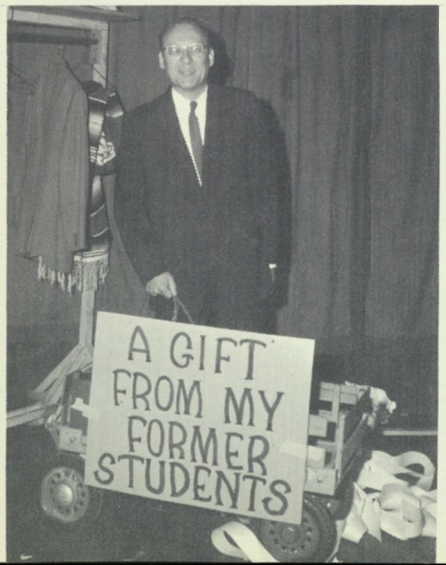
Dr. Henker: Steve, I thought you said this would be a B.S.U. meeting.
Dr. Finch: It is; Boosers, Sots, and Uthers.



Magistrate Castro, Prosecutor Perry Van Dalsam, Attorney Storm Whaley

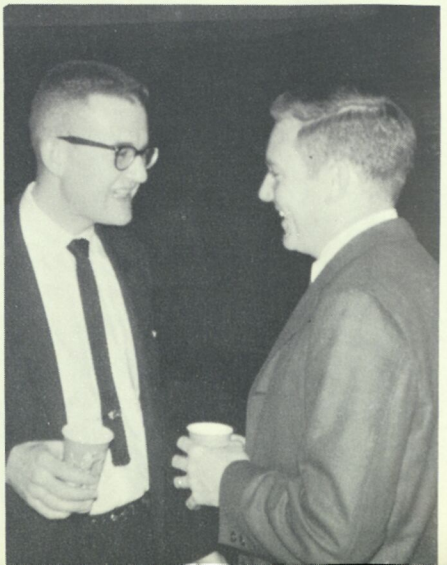
Three Freshman Repeaters and singing the Med School Blues.

Another Gift?



That's not milk you've got in that carton. Roz.

No matter how good the band is, you can't please everyone.



STUDENT NURSES

Onward, Public Health!

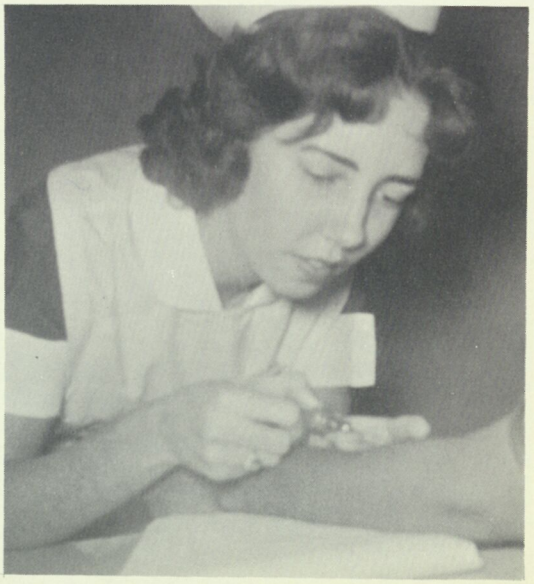
Wonder what this is all about??

Who said we couldn't do venous punctures.

When will Ellis learn that we can't practice on dead ones?

United we stand, divided we fall!

In my student days we were only allowed thirty minute coffee breaks.



They told me extra curricular activities were important.

"Duck!"

Coming or going??

Now, about this convention.

Who said we had to eat in the coffee shop?

Who said we wanted to go to the convention??

Do I, "Provide for uniform tasks on uniform schedule with individualization showing in differential performance"???

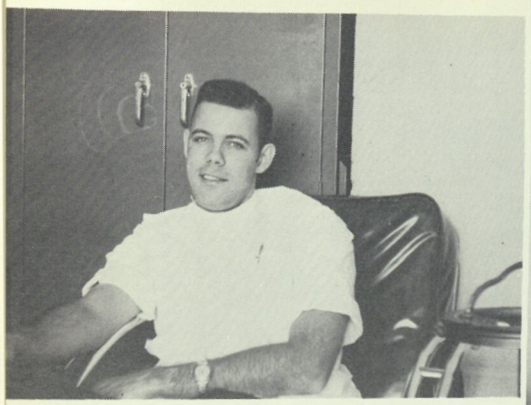
You'll be sorry you kicked me.

I believe you'll find that in DePaul's Form Book for Term Papers.

Hope that appropriation for heat comes through before June.

Are you sure Phenol is indicated for strep throat???

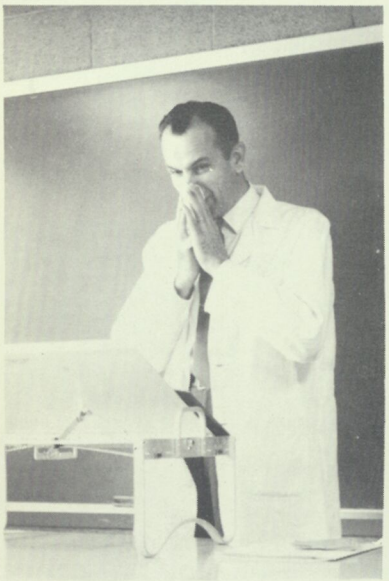
Let me practice my injection technique on you?



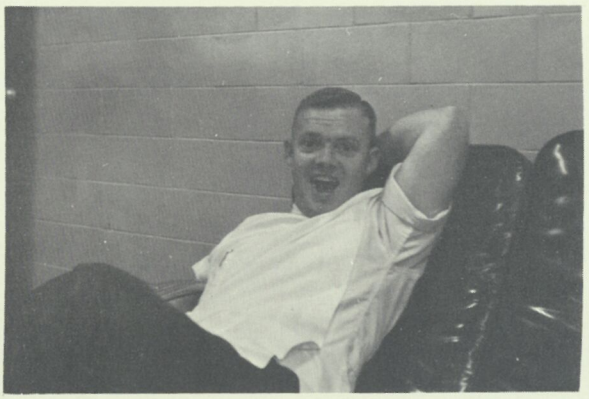
It's class time, so —

— and don't you forget it!

aw — you're kidding



This course stinks!



Hell NO!!

Just making up a little test.

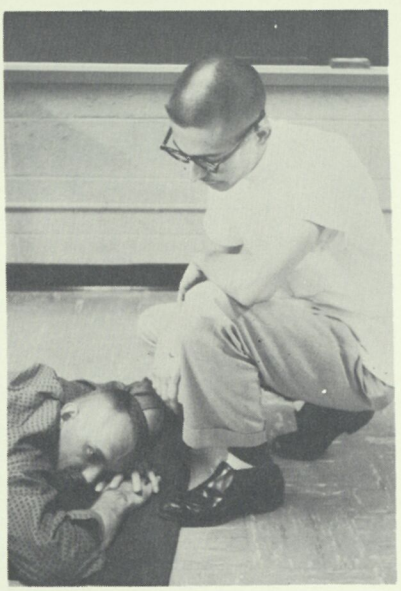
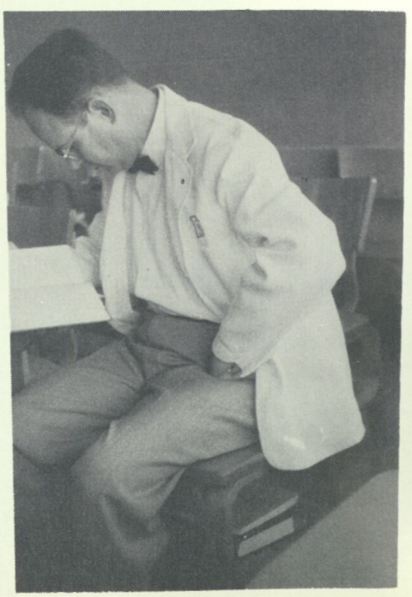
I'll just be ——!

Now Linder, no Handsies.



I'd leave him to die, but he might sue!

The Thinker



Question: Who won the money and who received the gold keys at the fall convocation?

Martians descending on Suzanne Henry.

Thanks, Dr. Wixom, for another interesting lecture on phenylalanine.

But Dr. Mittelstaedt, we're already got your picture in here twice.

Hell, George, I don't see how you ever got anything done with a staff like that.

Flying saucers after the governor.

FUN, ACTIVITIES. et alli

KAPPA PSI RUSH PARTY

The speaker talked and talked

and told jokes

and every one listened

then the Regent said a few words

Getting ready to dance

Of course we can read signs!

A moment to relax.

Did you see my two-step?

CHRISTMAS TIME 1960

The Med Center Santa made a merry Christmas for many local youngsters.

And Dr. J. M. Smith fooled everybody but the kiddies.

The largest gifts seemed to go to the smallest children.

Some of the larger children were disturbed when their names weren't called.

Santa and Master of Ceremonies Jake Golding.

"Maybe that big one is mine."

I think I see a Pediatrics prof; give me that gun fella, and I'll show you how it works.

ADVERTISEMENTS

The interest of the following firms and individuals in the Medical Center is reflected in the following pages. Without their support, the Caduceus could not exist. We admonish each of you to patronize these advertisers.

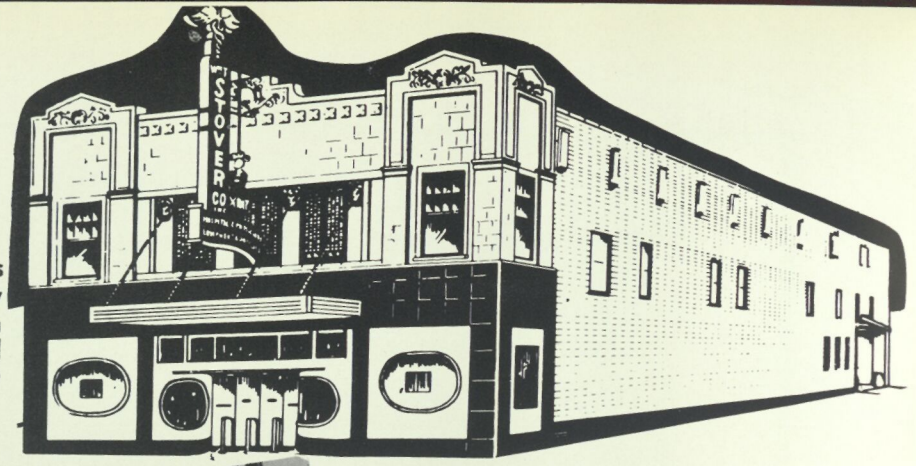
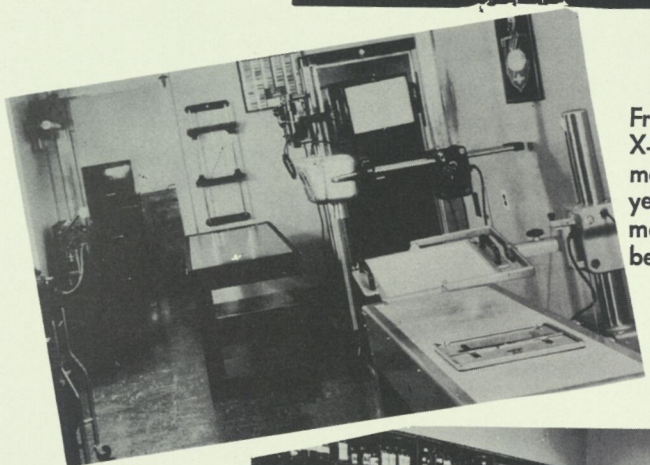
Stover's



THE SIGN OF SERVICE

For almost 20 years, the name of Stover's has stood for service, dependability, quality and economy to the medical profession in Arkansas. Their modern building, a surgical merchandising milestone, is a familiar corner in downtown Little Rock.



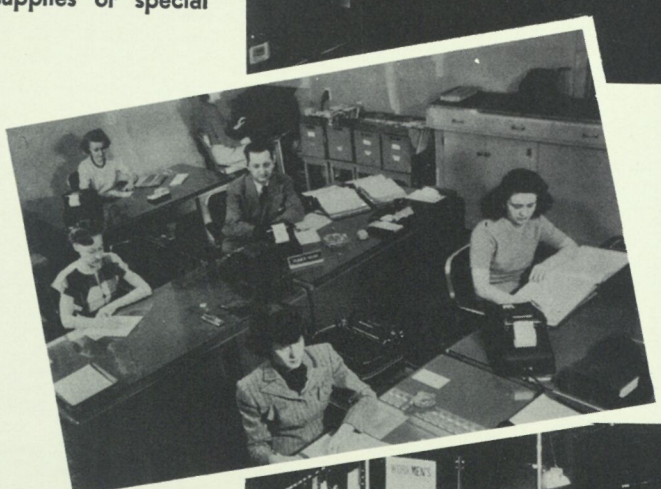
COMPLETE X-RAY SERVICE

From sales to service . . everything needed for X-Ray, Physiotherapy and Electrosurgical equipment and supplies. Our staff has a total of 77 years in the field of X-Ray and other allied equipment, so you can expect, and receive the very best of service available.

STOVER SCIENTIFIC LAB DIVISION

The latest addition to the "Stover family." One of the best-equipped, up-to-date labs in this area. Mr. Jack Ross, M. T., is ready to help you with any special problems or needs. When you need equipment, supplies or special reagents, call us.

ARKANSAS' OLDEST AND MOST COMPLETE SURGICAL SUPPLY HOUSE



COURTEOUS STAFF

Our business office is well-trained and always eager to help with your bookkeeping or tax problems. They'll be only too happy to help you when the time comes to arrange special budget payments to cover the purchase of equipment or supplies, and to cash any checks for you, too.

STOCK DEPARTMENT

Merchandise in stock for rapid delivery is important to service. Our stock facility and quick order filling service is unequaled. May it be your stock requirements or emergency demands, we are open twenty-four hours a day to serve you.

Stover's sends...

CONGRATULATIONS

. . . to you young men and women and our sincere best wishes to you in your chosen profession . . . one of the most honored throughout the world. It is our sincere desire that you may find the Wm. T. Stover Company truly helpful to you . . . not only throughout your studies and preparations, but also when you are ready to "Hang out your own shingle."

We are sincerely proud of our 22 years of service to the Medical Profession in this area, and wish to urge you to avail yourselves of our many and varied services . . . help with location, detailed advice about office planning, special budget arrangements, and any other way in which we can help at any step in your career. We have always tried to take a "personalized" interest in our customers . . not merely a cold, businesslike account record.

The opportunity you have given the Wm. T. Stover Company in the past to be of service is heartily appreciated, and we thank you for this expression of your confidence. The aim of every individual in our organization is to make the experience of trading with us so pleasant you will want to return again and again.

IN MEMORIAM ? ?

The scientific world is grieved to hear of the disappearance of Sidney S. Davenport, who was last seen fording the Amazon River in Brazil where, contrary to earlier reports that he was trying to locate the spot where he had parked his Volkswagen, he had elected to go on a mission of healing among the natives.

Fame was no stranger to "Good Old Scott", who from humble origins rose, in only half a century, to great heights. Versatile, he is remembered as the organizer and director of the Ilio-Tibial Band, recipient of the McCullough Award for the composition of "What a Friend We Have in Khrushchev" and that favorite yuletide ballad "Silver Bowels." He was the world's speed record holder for the student CBC, & the originator of the inter-periosteal immunization technique.

His passing is lamented by his many friends as well as a host of booksalesmen, foreign car dealers, fellow sportsmen, and loan agencies. The Brazilian government announces that he is to be awarded the Medalion of Merit posthumously for his contribution to piranah fish control, and has graciously waived the seven centavo fine for waterway polution.
